CONTINUOUS RISK MANAGEMENT

Alaska Native Corporation | Small Disadvantaged Business

Risk assessments are a valuable tool for understanding organizational risk exposure to cyber, physical, environmental, and other threats.

Unfortunately, they can become obsolete over time as threats evolve, new vulnerabilities are discovered, technology changes, requirements are altered, or business priorities change.

We assist organizations with meeting their Continuous Monitoring requirements in accordance with NIST 800-137 standards to ensure security implementation maps to organizational risk tolerance, adapts to ongoing needs, and actively involves management. Regardless of enterprise architecture and mission complexity, we can assist organizations with defining, establishing, and implementing the correct information system continuous monitoring (ISCM) strategy.

Our Continuous Risk Management (CRM) service offering includes ISCM strategy development, initial and ongoing risk assessments of mission critical systems and facilities, evaluation of risk control cost-effectiveness, monitoring of regulatory changes, and risk reporting to provide senior management with situational awareness of security compliance, security risk exposure, risk control return on investment, and organizational interdependencies.
